Nowadays, multiplex cinemas are a permanent and entrenched feature of shopping malls all over America and are becoming increasingly popular throughout the world. Many of the theaters are being expanded into entertainment complexes complete with virtual roller coasters, video, arcades and food courts as well as a dizzying array of movie selections. At the Sony IMAX Theater in New York City, the building's interior is a strange merging of high tech and nostalgia. As Mary Jane Dodge, the IMAX project director for Sony Theaters explains, "This is an homage to the great theaters of the past. With the Sony IMAX Theater, we want to take the past into the future." Walking into the complex, patrons are met by a 65-foot color mural collage of the great movie palaces. Downstairs, a smaller black-and-white mural depicts behind-the-scenes shots from famous films. There is even a column used as a vertical timeline which traces the major events in cinema history.

Although the showcase of the complex is the IMAX Theater with its impressive 80-by-100-foot-screen, personal sound devices, 3-D goggles, there are twelve additional theaters, ranging from 150 to 900 seats. They incorporate advanced technology into an architectural space designed "to create a partner in the architectural firm that designed the complex. Each theater, designed around Hindu, Chinese, Moroccan, Olympic, Egyptian and other similar themes, is replete with ornate entrance portals and interior detailing, as well as state-of-the-art lighting and sound.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 44 to 50

According to recent scientific theory, it is probable that life will develop on planets that have a favorable environment-planets similar to ours, that orbits stars like our sun. Since there are about 400 billion stars in our galaxy alone, that means there are huge number of planets like ours that could sustain life. Planets with advanced civilizations are likely to be widely scattered throughout the universe. In the past four decades, humans on Earth have begun to search for these civilizations. This search is called SETI, the Search for Extra- Terrestrial Intelligence, and it has been conducted largely by searching for radio waves emitted from civilizations on other planets.

In 1960, Dr. Frank Drake made the first attempt at SETI, by conducting a radio searches using an 85-foot antenna of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory in West Virginia. This search, called Project Ozma, observed two stars about 12 light years away. Since that time, more than 60 searches have been conducted by dozens of astronomers in at least eight countries.

All searches, thus far, have faced many limitations: they used equipment that lack sensitivity, they did not search frequently, they covered little of the sky, or they could search for only a few types of signals or in a few directions. The searches did turn up signals of unknown origin, but data collected in these searches were often processed long after the observation. In order to be sure that a signal is from another civilizations, it has to be independently verified and shown to originate from a point beyond the solar system. Later searches for the unknown signals turned up nothing.

Project Phoenix, the latest SETI effort, consists orders of magnitude more comprehensive than any of those previous experiments, and uses the world's largest antennas. It will scrutinize the regions around 1,000 nearby Sun-like stars, and immediately test candidate signals to see if they are Project Phoenix in origin. It is important that Project Phoenix continue to operate, because radio interference from Earth sources is growing, and may soon interfere with our ability to detect possible extraterrestrial signals. In order to overcome this growing interference, ever better antenna systems are being developed

Question 44: What does the passage mainly discussed?

- A. possible explanations for radio signals of unknown origin
- B. the origin of life on other planets
- C. the life stories of scientists involved in SETI
- D. efforts to search for signals from extraterrestrial civilizations

Question 45: What subject would most likely be the topic of the paragraph following this paragraph?

- A. a description of the most sophisticated radio antennas
- B. what Dr. Frank Drake and other well-known scientists think of Project Ozma
- C. a description of the most recent efforts of Project Phoenix
- D. a description of several other failed attempts to pick extraterrestrial radio signals

Question 46: "Verified" in bold in paragraph 3 is closest in meaning to _____

- A. received
- B. underlined
- C. checked
- D. discovered

Question 47: It can be inferred from the passage that a major limitation of earlier searches for alien radio signals was _____

- A. the limited number of signals that might be extraterrestrial
- B. the slowness of the verification process
- C. the lack of scientific interest in this topic
- D. the difficulty of obtaining government funding

Question 48: Which of the following would NOT distinguish Project Phoenix from previous SETI experiments?

- A. It can only search in a few directions
- B. It uses the world's largest antennas
- C. It immediately tests candidate signals
- D. It is comprehensive

Question 49: "Scrutinize" in bold in the last paragraph is closest meaning to _____

- A. process
- B. establish
- C. examine
- D. orbit

Question 50: Where is this passage most likely seen in?

- A. a book of short stories.
- B. a personal website
- C. a popular science journal
- D. an editorial in a local newspaper
