Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions

Life improves when you decide to do things differently. In this case, the goal is to gain control over time, rather than letting it control you. It is about taking ownership of time, which is the essence of your life. The main objective of time management is for you to have a clear picture of your upcoming days, weeks, and months. It is a way for you to discover what time you have available to devote to study, recreation, or other activities. Make the decision to be the master of your life, rather than its suffering slave!

The objective of time management is to allocate time wisely, so you can achieve your goals. If you wanted to be an Olympic swimmer or ice skater, you would have to practice several hours a day for years. In the same way, to be a top student you must have a good idea of the study requirements. Even though each subject places different demands on you – reading, writing, research, experiments, assignments, essays, projects, papers, presentations, tests, and exams – by prioritizing, you will increase your chances of success. For each subject, decide how to complete all required tasks, over a weekly, monthly, and yearly basis. This advance planning will increase your awareness, making it less likely for you to squander time away meaninglessly.

After establishing your priorities, set up a schedule which respects your priorities. A wide variety of student organizers, diaries, planners, electronic tools and time management systems are available on the market. Choose or create whatever seems best for you. Many students select weekly planners that enable them to see the big picture more easily. Make sure your system is something you are very comfortable with as you will be referring to it often. Then, set up your schedule in this order.

In addition to your weekly planner, invest in a large monthly wall calendar. Jot down all the important due dates, deadlines, exams, etc so they are in front of you as a visual reminder. This will make you more aware of important dates and allow you to adjust or rearrange plans if you are behind schedule.

Question 30: What is the passage mainly about?

- A. Ways for learners to manage time effectively
- B. Ways for students to improve their life
- C. How to set up a schedule
- D. How to be successful students

Question 31: According to paragraph 1, it's important that you.....

- A. organize your time
- B. do different things
- C. organize your time
- D. do different things

Question 32: Which of the following best replaces the word “squander” in paragraph 2?

- A. save
- B. keep
- C. take
- D. waste

Question 33: According to paragraph 2, what is the key for students to succeed in study?

- A. Complete a few tasks
- B. Having good ideas
- C. Being demanding
- D. Setting priorities

Question 34: The word “them” in paragraph 3 refers to.....

- A. planners
- B. systems
- C. students
- D. priorities

Question 35: What is NOT mentioned in paragraph 3 as a tool to help with a timetable?

- A. stop watches
- B. student organizers
- C. diaries and planners
- D. time management systems

Question 36: As in paragraph 4, what is a wall calendar regarded as?

- A. an outdated method
- B. an effective tool

C. a beautiful decoration

D. an inexpensive object

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions

If you think of the jobs robots could never do, you would probably put doctors and teachers at the top of the list. It's easy to imagine robot cleaners and factory workers, but some jobs need human connection and creativity. But are we underestimating what robots can do? In some cases, they already perform better than doctors at diagnosing illness. Also, some patients might feel more comfortable sharing personal information with a machine than a person. Could there be a place for robots in education after all?

British education expert Anthony Seldon thinks so. And he even has a date for the robot takeover of the classroom: 2027. He predicts robots will do the main job of transferring information and teachers will be like assistants. Intelligent robots will read students' faces, movements and maybe even brain signals. Then they will adapt the information to each student. It's not a popular opinion and it's unlikely robots will ever have empathy and the ability to really connect with humans like another human can.

One thing is certain, though. A robot teacher is better than no teacher at all. In some parts of the world, there aren't enough teachers and 9–16 percent of children under the age of 14 don't go to school. That problem could be partly solved by robots because they can teach anywhere and won't get stressed, or tired, or move somewhere for an easier, higher-paid job.

Those negative aspects of teaching are something everyone agrees on. Teachers all over the world are leaving because it is a difficult job and they feel overworked. Perhaps the question is not 'Will robots replace teachers?' but 'How can robots help teachers?' Office workers can use software to do things like organise and answer emails, arrange meetings and update calendars. Teachers waste a lot of time doing non-teaching work, including more than 11 hours a week marking homework. If robots could cut the time teachers spend marking homework and writing reports, teachers would have more time and energy for the parts of the job humans do best.

Question 37: Anthony Seldon thinks teachers in the future will.....

A. help robots in class

B. teach knowledge to students

C. no longer exist

D. have robots do non-teaching work

Question 38: The word “they” in paragraph 2 refers to.....

Question 39: According to paragraph 4, teachers.....

- A. work harder than office workers
- B. have less help than office workers
- C. leave their jobs to become office workers
- D. don't want to mark homework

Question 40: Which of the following statements about robot is TRUE?

- A. Robots are always better at diagnosing illness than doctors
- B. Many experts agree robots will replace teachers by 2027
- C. One advantage of robot teachers is that they don't need to rest
- D. Robots assistants helped teachers by marking homework and writing reports
