Artificial intelligence (AI) refers to the simulation of human intelligence in machines. These machines are programmed to think like humans and mimic their actions. The term may also be applied to any machine that exhibits traits associated with a human mind such as learning and problem-solving.

The ideal characteristic of artificial intelligence is its ability to rationalize and take actions that have the best chance of achieving a specific goal. A subset of artificial intelligence is machine learning. This means that computer programs can automatically learn from and adapt to new data without being assisted by humans. Deep learning techniques enable this automatic learning through the absorption of huge amounts of unstructured data such as text, images, or video.

Machine learning is the concept that a computer program can learn and adapt to new data without human intervention.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

It is obvious that we are destroying our planet. A steadily rising population is placing ever-higher demands on Earth's resources and is wiping out the wilderness and the ecological balance of the planet, something on which we all depend. A steadily rising use of fossil fuels for energy is choking Earth's atmosphere with gases that are slowly poisoning it. In addition, it allows the atmosphere to conserve heat more efficiently, so that the planet is experiencing a greenhouse effect that may have catastrophic impact. A steadily increasing production of chemical substances that are highly toxic is poisoning the soil and water of the Earth, is destroying the ozone layer and is converting much of the planetary surface into a garbage heap. Since there can be nothing on Earth, simply nothing, that is more important than saving the planet, our priorities must be to reverse these destructive tendencies. We must find alternative sources of energy, long-lasting and non-polluting. We must continue the search for nuclear fusion, in the hope that it will be a far richer and safer source than nuclear fission. We must develop wind-power, wave-power and, most of all, the direct use of solar power. All these things are highly practical, but cost more money than oil and coal, so that the challenge is to make them cheaper. We must find ways of detoxifying toxic products produced by industrial plants. We must find substitutes for packaging, substitutes that are recyclable. We must find substitutes for chemicals that destroy the ozone layer. We must find methods of saving our forests, of saving threatened species, of maintaining a healthy ecological balance on Earth.
