Very few peop	le, groups, or governments oppos	e globalization in its entire	ty. Instead, critics of globalization believe aspects of the	way globalization operates shoul	d be changed. The debate of	over globalization is about what the best rules are for gove	erning the global economy so that	its advantages can grow w	hile its problems can be solved.
On one side of	f this debate are those who stress	the benefits of removing ba	arriers to international trade and investment, allowing	capital to be allocated more effic	iently and giving consumer	rs greater freedom of choice. With free-market globaliza	tion, investment funds can move	unimpeded from the rich co	ountries to the developing countries.
Consumers can benef	it from cheaper products because	reduced taxes make goods	produced at low cost from faraway places cheaper to buy	. Producers of goods gain by selli	ng to a wider market. More	e competition keeps sellers on their \underline{toes} and allows ideas	and new technology to spread and	d benefit others.
On the other s	side of the debate are critics who	see neo-liberal policies as p	producing greater poverty, inequality, social conflict, cultura	al destruction, and environmental	damage. They say that the	most developed nations - the United States, Germany, and	Japan - succeeded not because of	free trade but because of p	protectionism and subsidies. They argue that the more re	ecently successful economies of S	outh Korea, Taiwan, and C	China all had strong state-led development strategie	es that did not follow neo-liberalis	sm. These critics think that	government encouragement of "infant industries" - that is, in	ndustries that are just beginning to	o develop - enables a count	ry to become internationally competitive.
Furthermore,	those who criticize the Washington	on Consensus suggest that t	the inflow and outflow of money from

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 41 to 45.

As the pace of life continues to increase, we are fast losing the art of relaxation. Once you are in the habit of rushing through life, being on the go from morning to night, it is hard to slow down. But relaxation is essential for a healthy mind and body.

Stress is a natural part of every life and there is no way to avoid it. In fact, it is not the bad thing it is often supposed to be. A certain amount of stress is vital to provide motivation and give purpose to life. It is only when the stress gets out of control that it can lead to poor performance and ill health.

The amount of stress a person can withstand depends very much on the individual. Some people are not afraid of stress, and such characters are obviously prime material for managerial responsibilities. Others lose heart at the first signs of unusual difficulties. When exposed to stress in whatever form, we react both chemically and physically. In fact we make choice between "fight" or "flight", and in more primitive days the choice made the difference between life or death. The crises we meet today	are not likely to be so	o extreme, but however little th	e stress, it involves the same response. It is when such a react	ion lasts long, throug	h continued exposure to stress	that health becomes endangered.

Such serious conditions as high l	blood pressure and he	eart disease have established lir	nks with stress. Since we cannot remove stress from our lives (and	d it would be unwise	to do so even if we could), we	need to find ways to deal with it.
Question 41: People are finding	less and less time fo	r relaxing themselves because_
A. they do not know how to enjo	y themselves.	B. they are becoming busier at their work.
